

London Calling for Global Marbella Company

UDesign might be based in Marbella but their work takes them to the world's most luxurious enclaves. From the deserts of Marrakech to the snowy slopes of fashionable Verbier – and to the bright sandy beaches of the Cayman Islands – UDesign's international clientele are keeping the company in globetrotting mode. Their latest international project is slightly closer to home: a listed building in London's fashionable Belgravia. The property is distributed over six floors with nine bedrooms and is full of beautifully detailed period features. After working with UDesign on a large project in Marbella the owners were keen for the company's talented design team to take on their magnificent London residence. The brief was to retain the integrity of the internal architectural features, but at the same time create a modern yet classic feel.

Each project UDesign undertakes can be said to be truly bespoke as they create furniture specifically for its individual design and décor, as well as having their own Signature Collection. If you're looking for a style that is different from the norm, "something bespoke that's really you", UDesign are the company to contact.
